Traffic & Transportation and Project Review

"maredion@LightMyMile Mitchel Musso performing at the Lights Festival. My daughter and her friends are going to freak!"

As always, we welcome back our Grand Marshall, Mickey Mouse, directly from Walt Disney Resorts in Florida to lead our Lighting Procession down The Magnificent Mile. In addition to all of the festive floats and oversized balloons, the Lighting Procession has also had the volume turned up, literally. For the first time ever, we are pleased to present the heart-pumping energy that marching bands will bring to the Avenue. Festival goers will enjoy upbeat, holiday tunes from The Loyola Academy Marching Ramblers, Urban Prep Drumline and more as they get the crowds in the holiday spirit. We thank the City of Chicago for granting us the opportunity to bring this experience to our event.

To add to the experience, Lights Festival Lane at Pioneer Court will be alive with a myriad of holiday fun for families; while the Culinary Pavilion at the John Hancock Plaza will be offering culinary demonstrations from The Signature Room At the 95th that will highlight some of Chicago's most festive cuisine.

Special holiday offers like The John Hancock Observatory's "Santa's Winter Wonderland", also contribute to how we share the events of the weekend with consumers through our website, providing them with a chance to make the most out of November 21 and 22.

We are also happy to be bringing The Extra Mile: Acts of Kindness to Start the Holiday Season program to life. This successful, "shop for a cause" initiative is giving The Magnificent Mile Lights Festival presented by Harris yet another chance to expand. Once again, it is largely thanks to the charitable offers of our members that allow this campaign of good deeds to live as a facet of The Magnificent Mile Lights Festival presented by Harris.

We hope to see all of you with your families and friends out on The Magnificent Mile on November 21 and 22. Whether you plan on lending your talents as a volunteer, or are just coming down to take advantage of the warm glow and festive atmosphere, we appreciate your support and participation!

New Programming for 2010: Educational Seminars

We would like to introduce a new programming initiative for 2010. Four educational seminars will highlight prominent areas of interest, including: social media, advertising and public relations, marketing and branding, networking, leadership and team building.

We are looking for your input as we continue to formulate the seminars. By clicking here, you can download a proposal form to suggest speakers and additional topics to the Educational Seminar Committee. Please submit this form if:

- You or someone you know is interested in presenting on any of the topics listed above.
- You or someone you know has expertise in other topics for the committee to consider for future seminars.

* Priority will be given to GNMAA members.

Please submit your proposals NO LATER THAN November 23, 2009 for consideration.

Contact Polly Olson, Program Director, at polson@gnmaa.com to learn more about this new initiative or if you are interested in joining the Educational Seminar Committee.

Supporting Each Other with Social Media

We are excited to further promote The Magnificent Mile® through the realm of social media this year. With The Magnificent Mile Lights Festival® presented by Harris coming up, we will be updating followers with exciting tidbits and exclusive opportunities regarding our biggest event of the year. While The Magnificent Mile has a loyal group of followers on Facebook and Twitter already, we would like to call on all of our members to utilize their social media networks to help support our efforts. By doing any or all of the following things, you will be supporting the growth of our social media network tremendously!

• Send us information about special "Tweet" deals or incentives that we can publicize the weekend of the The Magnificent Mile Lights Festival presented by Harris. We will include your submissions in our "real-time" tweets for festival attendees, directing them to your business.

A post might read as follows:

Mention this post at XYZ Boutique at 625 N. Michigan Avenue within the next 30 minutes and receive 10% off of your purchase! #LightMyMile

During Lights Festival weekend, we feel that these "flash deals" will create noticeable bursts of consumer traffic for participating businesses. These deals will be posted LIVE the weekend of November 20 – 22.

If you are interested in offering an incentive or have questions about this initiative, please contact Dana Pontarelli at dpontarelli@gnmaa.com or at 312-344-2319 with the following information:

- What is your incentive?
- What day (November 20, 21 or 22) would you like your incentive to be posted on Facebook and Twitter?
- For how long would you like your incentive to be posted? (30 minutes or 1 hour?)

The October Membership Connection

While jazz music echoed through the Murphy Auditorium on Thursday, October 15, excitement and optimism dominated the conversations of guests at the September Membership Connection. After congratulating Mary Ann Young, of Garrett Popcorn, on their newly re-opened Magnificent Mile location, GNMAA President and CEO, John Chikow, shared the many accomplishments The Magnificent Mile has seen over the last couple of months. Chikow proudly referenced the Chicago Tribune article that stated that among the top ten major retail avenues, Michigan Avenue has been the only avenue to maintain retail rental rates during this year's tough economic time.

The openings of Garrett Popcorn, Victoria's Secret and ZARA became a topic of conversation among guests, as well as the upcoming openings of Swarovski, Columbia Sportswear and Michael Kors in our district. Thank you to everyone who attended this networking event and shared in all of the recent excitement surrounding our district.

The GNMAA Public Way Committee, led by co-chairs Kevin Stanley (U.S. Equities Realty, LLC) and Mary Ann Rose (Tamar Productions, Inc.), completed their first Garden Walk for the 2010 beautification series. The Fall Garden walk showcased the commitment that Michigan Avenue property owners have to The Magnificent Mile®. The landscaping along the North Michigan Avenue public way appeared to be not only well maintained, but was also lush, creative and inventive. The Public Way Committee would like to extend thanks to the property owners and their landscapers who work hard to make The Magnificent Mile a more beautiful place for shoppers, visitors and residents. This exceptional Garden Walk has set the bar high for the rest of the 2010 season.

DuSable Honored on The Magnificent Mile®

Article and Photography by Aki Antonia, Bronzeville Arts Blog

It was a great day for Chicagoans on the Magnificent Mile as city officials, dignitaries, Haitian Americans and Chicagoans all rejoiced in celebration at the historical unveiling and dedication of a bronze bust of the founder of Chicago, Jean Baptiste Pointe DuSable. Flags were waved, songs were sung, speeches were given and tears flowed, as the bust of DuSable was unveiled to a cheering crowd on Saturday, October 17, 2009.

The bust is located on the Michigan Avenue bridge just north of the Tribune Tower. This site has been noted by some historians as the area that the fur trapper and trader, DuSable first settled and built his home in Chicago.

"The first known non-indigenous permanent settler in Chicago, Jean Baptiste Pointe du Sable, who was a man of mixed African and European heritage born in Saint-Domingue (modern day Haiti), arrived in the 1770s, married a Potawatomi woman, and founded the area's first trading post." Source -Wikipedia on Chicago.

Jean Baptiste Pointe du Sable (before 1745? St. Marc, Saint-Domingue (now Haiti) - August 28, 1818, St. Charles, Mo.),[1] popularly known as "The Father of Chicago",[2] was a Haitian colonist in North America of mixed French and African ancestry. Du Sable was simultaneously the first known nonindigenous settler and the first African-American/Afro-Caribbean] in the area which is now Chicago, Illinois, in recognition whereof he was declared the Founder of Chicago by the State of Illinois and the City of Chicago on October 26, 1968.[3] -Source Wikipedia

Mr. Lesley Benodin, a Haitian-American who has lived in Chicago for the past forty years, donated the bust as a gift of public art to the City of Chicago. Mr. Benodin's efforts were aided with the logistical assistance of a group of Haitian business and civic-minded individuals including Mr. Harry Fouche of Chicago and Ms. Alette Marcelin of Evanston.

The groups' mission was to offer and to provide the City of Chicago with a monument honoring Jean Baptiste Pointe DuSable in recognition of DuSable as the first successful businessman in Chicago, to celebrate business here in Chicago and as another expression of the presence of the Haitian American community here in the city.

Prior to this bust, the most well known commemoration of DuSable is the DuSable Museum chartered in 1961 by Dr. Margaret Burroughs.

The DuSable Museum of African American History is the first and oldest museum dedicated to the study and conservation of African American history, culture, and art. It was founded in 1961 by Dr. Margaret Taylor-Burroughs (Margaret Goss Burroughs), her husband Charles Burroughs, Gerard Lew, and others.

Dr. Taylor-Burroughs and other founders established the museum to celebrate black culture, then overlooked by most museums and academic establishments. It is located at 740 E. 56th Place at the corner of Cottage Grove Avenue on the South Side of Chicago in the Washington Park community area.

The DuSable Museum is the oldest and largest caretaker of black American culture in the United States. Over its long history, it has expanded as necessary to reflect the increased interest in black culture.

The museum was originally located on the ground floor of the Burroughs' home at 3806 S. Michigan Avenue.

In 1968, the museum was renamed for Jean Baptiste Pointe du Sable, a Haitian fur trader and the first non-Native-American permanent settler in Chicago.[6][7] During the 1960s, the museum and South Side Community Art Center, which was located across the street, founded by Taylor-Burroughs and dedicated by Eleanor Roosevelt,[8] formed an African American cultural corridor.-Source Wikipedia

The day was of special significance to the eighty-nine year old, Bessie Neal, former president of The DuSable League. Mrs. Neal and the DuSable League (a group of former Chicago teachers formerly known as the DuSable Memorial Society) have worked tirelessly for many decades advocating for the formal recognition of DuSable as the founder of Chicago and for a statue to be placed in his honor in Chicago.

The day was equally as poignant for Mr. Haroon Rashid, president of the Friends of DuSable, a diverse, multiracial group that advocates for the legacy of Jean Baptiste Pointe DuSable in the State of Illinois. Mr. Rashid stated that he was particularly proud to see that the language on the bust that referred to DuSable as the founder of Chicago because in 2006, the Friends of DuSable group and the Chicago Commission on Human Relations African Advisory Council co-produced an ordinance that recognized DuSable as the founder of the city of Chicago. The ordinance is called The DuSable Commemoration Ordinance.

Currently, Friends of DuSable has been working with city officials, aldermen and a variety of multiracial groups including the French Consulate, the Haitian Consulate, various African American groups, Native-American groups, the DuSable museum and Friends of the Parks to create a commemorative park and a DuSable Welcome Center and River Museum.

This group has celebrated Chicago's birthday, annually on March 4 at the Chicago History museum and other venues with multicultural activities and programs to honor the city and DuSable.

At the unveiling, Mr. Haroon Rashid also stated, "We are all grateful to Alderman Brendan Reilly and his civic leadership and support for his bid to pass through City Council a resolution renaming the Michigan Avenue Bridge to the Jean Baptiste Pointe DuSable Bridge. It is an initiative deserving of support."

The bronze bust of DuSable was created by artist, Mr. Eric Blome,
The City has accepted the art gift through the Department of Cultural Affairs.

Sprinkles® on The Magnificent Mile®

For the past three years, online voters have been naming Chicago as the ideal place to open a new Sprinkles®, The Original Cupcake Bakery. It seems that voters' persistence has paid off, as The Magnificent Mile® is gearing up to welcome Sprinkles to the district in March of 2010, bringing some of the nation's favorite cupcakes to Chicago. Founded in Beverly Hills, this will be the bakery's first retail location in the Midwest. Since being featured on The Oprah Winfrey

Show in 2006, Chicagoans have been craving Sprinkles' inventive, handcrafted treats. Sprinkles' Magnificent Mile location will open its doors at 50 E. Erie between Michigan and Rush. Congratulations!

Royalty Aboard for Mercury Cruiselines Owners

Mercury Cruiselines owners Captain Bob and Holly Agra recently hosted two very special dignitaries aboard their 1961 vintage yacht, Lady Grebe.

On Saturday, September 12, 2009, King Herald and Queen Sonja of Norway went for a spin on the Chicago River to take in the sights and sounds of downtown Chicago, guided by Chicago Architecture Foundation volunteer docent Tom Carmichael. The royal couple enjoyed Chicago's architecture and even took out their digital cameras for a few quick snap shots!

The Agra's acquired the yacht that was used for this voyage in 2004 from the third owner who lived aboard her at Jefferson Beach Marina in St. Clair Shores, Michigan. Perfectly preserved in fresh water for 48 years, Lady Grebe proudly serves as the smallest vessel in the Mercury/Chicago's First Lady fleet and is docked in Burnham Harbor on Chicago's Lakefront.
